- Respect personal boundaries.
- Clearly communicate intentions to the potential sexual partner prior to initiating any sex act.
- Go slow. Allow all partners the opportunity to clearly communicate their intentions.
- Don't assume that someone wants to engage in sex, is available, or can give consent. If there are mixed messages or ambiguous responses, then there is not consent. If there are any doubts about whether your potential partner consents to sexual activity, don't initiate the activity.
- Don't take advantage

Sexual Misconduct Risk Reduction

With no intent to victim blame and recognizing that only abusers are responsible for their abuse, the following are some strategies to reduce one's risk of sexual assault or harassment. This information is from the Rape, Abuse, & Incest National Network \(RAINN\).

Stay alert

When you're moving around on campus or in the surrounding area, be aware of your surroundings. Consider inviting a friend to join you or asking Campus Safety for an escort. Use headphones in only one ear to stay aware of your surroundings.

Make a plan

If you're going to a party, go with people you trust. Agree to watch out for each other and plan to leave together. If your plans change, make sure to touch base with the other people in your group. Don't leave someone stranded in an unfamiliar or unsafe situation.

Be secure

Lock your door and windows when you're asleep and when you leave the room. If people constantly prop open the main door to the Residence Hall or apartment, tell Campus Safety or a trusted

Be a good friend

Trust your instincts. If you notice something that doesn't feel right, it probably isn't. Learn more about how to keep your friends safe in social settings.

Make others earn your trust

A college environment can foster a false sense of security. They may feel like fast friends but give people time to earn your trust before relying on them.

Be careful about posting your location

Many social media sites use geolocation to publicly share your location. Consider disabling this function and review other settings.

Know your resources

Who should you contact if you or a friend needs help? Where should you go? Locate resources such as the campus health center, Campus Safety, and the counseling center. Notice where emergency phones are on campus and program the campus security number and app into your cell phone for easy access.

Think about a backup plan

Spend some time thinking about back-up plans for potentially sticky situations. If your phone dies, do you have a few numbers memorized? Do you have emergency cash in case you can't use a credit card or electronic pay like Venmo? Do you have the address to your Residence Hall or college memorized? If you drive, is there a spare key hidden, gas in your car, and a set of jumper cables?

10

It's okay to lie

If you want to exit a

11

Protect your drink

Don't leave your drink unattended, and watch out for your friends' drinks if you can. If you go to the bathroom or step outside, take the drink with you or toss it out. Drink from unopened containers or drinks you watched being made and poured. It's not always possible to know if something has been added to someone's drink. In drug-facilitated sexual assault, a perpetrator could use a substance that has no color, taste, or odor.

Fire Safety

Prevention and Education Programs

Residence Education staff receive training in fire safety and prevention. The training includes a review of the Operations Plan with use of event scenarios. Fire safety education is provided to students through various channels, including online modules and in-person sessions. Fire safety is a key component of the campus safety program.

Academic and administrative departments on campus have one or more disaster preparation department contacts who are responsible for coordinating disaster preparation efforts. These contacts are listed in the campus safety manual.

Education for Students appears in the online campus safety manual. All departments go through training as well—for fire safety and disaster preparation. This training is designed to ensure that all campus members are prepared in the event of an emergency.

1 Be alert

Always be alert to your surroundings.

2 Call 911

If you observe any suspicious activity or wish to report any criminal act, dial 911 immediately. Timely reports increase the likelihood that critical evidence will be obtained, stolen property will be recovered, and the offender will be successfully prosecuted. This is especially important in cases involving sex offenses. A prompt report will also ensure that you are made aware of all available victim support services.

3 Avoid walking alone at night

Arrange to walk with a group, when it is possible.

4 Keep your room door locked

Locking your door with your key, wherever you reside, is an effective

9 Lock your bike

The College strongly recommends a U-style bike-lock. A properly locked bicycle is much less likely to be stolen.

10 Participate in personal safety and security awareness programs

The College offers several such programs described in detail in this Annual Security Report offered to students and employees.

11 Be aware of campus crime trends

Information on campus crime is available from Campus Safety, including in the Daily Crime and Fire Log described in this Annual Security Report and available at <https://www.safety/daily-crime-log>

<https://www.safety/daily-crime-log>

12 Protect your laptop and your other devices

Always have your devices secured, whether in your room or in study areas, as they are a high value, targeted item for theft.

Civil Rights & Prohibited Conduct Policy

The Civil Rights & Title IX Coordinator coordinates and manages the College's compliance with Title IX and related provisions of the Clery Act, as amended by the Violence Against Women Act.

The Civil Rights & Title IX Coordinator oversees the College's centralized response to all reports of Prohibited Conduct to ensure consistent implementation of the Policy.

The Civil Rights & Title IX Coordinator and designated staff will, among other things:

- Communicate with members of the College community regarding applicable law and policy and provide information.
- Review applicable College policies to ensure institutional compliance with the Policy.
- Monitor the College's administration of its own applicable policies, including record keeping, adherence to timeframes, and other procedural requirements.
- Conduct training regarding Title IX, including for faculty and staff.

Respond to any report regarding Prohibited Conduct in this capacity, the Civil Rights & Title IX Coordinator will oversee the response to, and resolution of, such alleged misconduct, direct the provision of any remedial and protective measures

Respond to any report regarding Prohibited Conduct in this capacity, the Civil Rights & Title IX Coordinator will oversee the response to, and resolution of, such alleged misconduct, direct the provision of any remedial and protective measures

Regardless of whether a complaint has outlined in the Policy, if the College knows, or reasonably should know, about possible Prohibited Conduct involving individuals subject to the College's policies at the time, the College will promptly investigate to determine whether the alleged conduct more likely than not occurred, or otherwise respond if the College determines that an investigation that the alleged conduct more likely than not occurred, it will immediately take reasonable steps to end the harassment, address the hostile environment, if one has been created,

Preparation of the Annual Security Report

The Clery Act requires colleges and universities to collect and disclose statistics for Clery crimes and maintain an open and honest communication with the campus community. This information is required by the Clery Act each year to prepare, publish, and distribute to students and complete Annual Fire Safety and Security Reports for each calendar year of campus crime statistics, including sexual assault, dating violence, and domestic violence.

With the passage of the amendments to the Clery Act in the Violence Against Women Act, colleges and universities are required to disclose statistics, policy statements, and information regarding sexual assault, dating violence, and domestic violence.

Occidental College prepares its AFSSR to provide accurate and complete information about campus safety and crime prevention to the campus community. The process by which the AFSSR is prepared involves the Clery team reviewing all the crime reports which were gathered by the various campus entities and individuals, meeting with them to clarify any ambiguities, and then publishing the report.

The AFSSR is updated to include the most current information available. The process by which the AFSSR is prepared involves the Clery team reviewing all the crime reports which were gathered by the various campus entities and individuals, meeting with them to clarify any ambiguities, and then publishing the report.

At Occidental, the preparation of the AFSSR is a collaborative effort by Campus Safety and the Clery Act Compliance Team. The Clery Act Compliance Team includes the Civil Rights & Title IX Coordinator; Director of Campus Safety; Assistant Director of Student Conduct and Housing Services; the Senior Risk and Insurance Manager; the Athletics Department Services Coordinator; and the Director of Residential Education and Housing Services.
