- completing your literature review and preliminary writing of any background research (e.g. for case studies)
- getting started on your primary research

Class topics, discussions, and assignments will include examination of social science research methodology and applications, particularly in the fields of urban and environmental policy, urban planning and social change. You are expected to have already taken (or be concurrently enrolled in) a research methods course. We will not be doing an overview of methods in this course with the expectation that you have this background already. Rather, we will focus on deepening your understanding of research methods applications as you discern which research methods are appropriate to pursue for your particular topic.

NOTE: If you plan on doing any video work, you must have completed or be currently enrolled in the documentary film or other relevant courses in the Media Arts and Culture department.

Class times are scheduled and structured to support your individual research projects. At the same time, the goal of the course is to create a learning community where students work together as peer reviewers and research colleagues.

drafts rather than a first draft. We expect writing turned in to us to have gone through a few rounds of revision on which we will base both your progress and your grade.

- ❑ Final paper (60%) Due December 7 by 5:00 p.m.

The final paper will be the first portion of your senior comps. We expect that it will be 15-20 pages. It will include your research question and sub-questions, a structured literature review, a background section if you have one; your methodology, and any instruments or data sets you will be using for your data analysis and collection; and your work plan and timeline for the Spring semester.

The quality of your paper (as well as ultimately your successful comps project) depends on meeting several hard deadlines during the fall semester outlined below.
